In 1967 tens of thousands of Australian children were introduced to DIGGER, the first book in a complete reading programme, ENDEAVOUR, designed and written by Australian teachers and professional educators. This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the creation of the Digger books and the ENDEAVOUR programme which has enabled young children across Australia to proudly boast, "I can read!"

The first books in the programme are about the funny and lovable Red Setter puppy named DIGGER. Over fifteen million copies of the ENDEAVOUR books have been sold and thousands of teachers, parents and millions of children across Australia are, or have been, 'DIGGER and ENDEAVOUR FANS'.
